FERMENTATION: THE FORGOTTEN FOOD GROUP

FOUNDING PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Launching Spring 2027

The Fermentation Renaissance

The fermentation movement has outgrown fragmented information. It needs a trusted home.

For the last several years, interest in gut health - particularly methods for improving the gut microbiome through easy-to-implement dietary interventions, has seen a massive surge in interest and popularity. Poised at the forefront of this renaissance stand a few well-known commercial brands and then Kombucha Kamp, the world's largest online fermentation education resource dedicated to Changing the World, One Gut at a TimeTM.

Through a combination of educational resources and industry-leading, DNA-sequenced starter cultures for Kombucha, Jun, Milk Kefir, and Water Kefir, Kombucha Kamp has actively re-centered the fermentation conversation away from store-bought and back into people's homes... where fermentation has existed for millenia.

Your Daily Ferments

Your Daily Ferments is more than a cookbook or fermentation guide. It is fermentation... applied. It is the cornerstone of a broader educational ecosystem built around a simple but transformative idea: fermentation is the forgotten food group. As modern research continues to validate the profound connection between fermented foods, the gut microbiome, and overall health, Kombucha Kamp is leading a movement to make fermentation accessible, approachable, and part of everyday life. Rather than presenting fermentation as a niche hobby, Your Daily Ferments empowers anyone to confidently incorporate living foods into their daily routine through practical recipes, techniques, and timeless wisdom.

The book serves as the flagship for an expanding Your Daily Ferments ecosystem that includes online courses, recipes, educational video content, live events, digital resources, community challenges, and the Your Daily Ferments Summit. Together, these initiatives create multiple touchpoints for consumers to learn, engage, and take action, all with the shared mission of helping fermentation reclaim its rightful place as a foundational pillar of a healthy, modern diet.

Building the World's Most Trusted Fermentation Education Platform

The summit is the launchpad, not the destination.

Changing the World, One Gut at a Time™

Why the Summit Exists

For most of human history, fermented foods were an everyday part of the human diet. Today, despite unprecedented advances in nutrition science, these living foods have largely disappeared from modern tables, taking with them generations of practical knowledge and countless opportunities to support long-term health.

The Your Daily Ferments Summit | Fermentation: The Forgotten Food Group exists to help change that. By bringing together leading voices in fermentation, nutrition, culinary arts, and wellness, the summit serves as the launchpad for a broader educational movement, inspiring people to confidently incorporate simple, delicious, and accessible fermented foods into everyday life while building a lasting global community around the power of fermentation.
